LET'S DISTRACT

FOR AWHILE

frustration school tests papers pressures violence crime lack of money politics lets forget about these and our other problems for awhile and lets distract and remember some of the good times, some of the fun, some of our friends from 1976. Instead of our problems lets consider the distractions.

I'm British. Usually, that wouldn't mean very much. Except that this is (drum roll, please) the BICENTENNIAL YEAR and this is the Bicentennial portion of the yearbook. All right, so you whipped us in '76, got away with it in '12, and you think you're great. But don't think any foreigner is going to let you get away with that.

Every foreigner that has ever come to America feels in his bones that something is missing. However, most foreigners are unable to put their finger on the problem. There is a vague feeling that things are too good. To me, the solution is obvious: America needs a King.

Since the first bedraggled colonist set foot on the muddy shores of New England (it wasn't named that until a few hours later), Americans have needed someone to pick on. That's because they were picked on before being driven to coming to the great North American continent and they wanted revenge. There was also some irritability because they didn't have any decent tea.

As a result, the colonists picked on the highest figure of authority available and not able to strike back, that poor figure was the British King, more precisely the English King. So when the time came for revolution in 1776 (people had been complaining but not really willing to do anything), the Americans lost a marvelous scapegoat.

The loss of a scapegoat caused considerable problems for the American people; there was nothing to complain about. Life was reasonably easy. The American people were happy and miserable because they were so happy.

Realizing the American dilemma, the fatherly British nation tried to give you a King back in 1812. However, the attempt, in itself, gave the Americans something to complain about, and the British decided that perhaps you should be left alone. So we complied.

In recent times, the president has taken the role of the King. A good example of this phenomena was the well-known "Watergate Scandal." In Britain, a government leader would have resigned at the first whiff of a major scandal. (Anyway, the British government only have sex scandals, which are much more fun.) Which all goes to prove that Mr. Nixon really wanted to become King. Probably the American people wanted him to become King too. That was they would have had something to complain about. Unfortunately, your Congress blew it; they cornered him into resigning for his supposed misdeeds. (As you may know, resigning is a very un-Kingly act.)

The solution is obvious: In the tradition of fine, so-called "Yankee-Ingenuity," some philanthropist must rush over to Europe and buy a King, preferably complete with palace, palace guard, various and sundry servants, and air conditioning for the American visitors.

The palace and contents must then be installed somewhere in central Florida and a major road built to it so that tourists can "do" Disney World and see the new King all in the same day.

Before the king can be of any use to the American people, though, he must annoy them in some way. A good way to do this would be taxation without representation (that sounds trite). A corporation must be set up to charge exceptionally exorbitant prices for admission to this palace wonderland and levy taxes on hamburgers and Kentucky Fried chicken.

Incidentally, in case you have difficulty finding a suitable King, I know someone who's qualifications are impeccable.

HAVE NO STUDY? DON'T !!!

Distractions — they come in all shapes and sizes, from an 8 inch pigeon on your window sill to a 35-24-34 walking past you on the sidewalk. Haven't noticed them? Oh, come on, face it, all 5,500 of us can find something to do besides that paper that was assigned 3 weeks ago. If you're female, why not go to study break with the girls on the hall or stay and "munch out" on the cookies your Mom sent. If you don't get care packages, there's always the Melba toast you stole from the cafeteria two days ago. Its really amazing what concoctions you can come up with when you're desparate! Popcorn is the all time life-saver followed by peanut butter as a close second. Placing third has to be Ritz crackers.

Now your stomach is full — back to your paper! Have the funny feeling you forgot to do something today? Could it be the dirty laundry that you told your roommate you'd wash a week ago? Maybe you'd better throw them in the washer so she can move back into the room. Now comes the perennial problem — where can you get quarters at 10 p.m.? It won't be that bad, while you're asking around for change maybe you can find out what happened on "The Young and the Restless" this afternoon. And we mustn't forget Phil and Tara!

Not bad you got your rough draft written by 2:00 a.m. and rewrote your paper during Accounting class. Tonight'll be easy, you just have 200 pages of History to read.

Weekends — What's the matter? Did you get stuck in this hell-hole again? It'll be bad this time cause you don't have much studying to do. Let's plan everything out. Friday night you can go to the Hinshaw "you pay a dollar and we'll drink your beer" parties or to one of Bailey's fires. (They both happen quite frequently). Saturday morning you can sleep late unless your mother calls at 8:20 for a "long-distance chat." Sweet of her to make sure to catch you in, wasn't it?!

Your afternoon is free, you can do something drastic like clean your room, or play some tennis. Or you can take a hike from dorm to dorm and find the other ten people left on campus. (Of course they told us at orientation this was not a suitease college!)

Saturday night can be a trip to the T.R. or Yum-Yums and then a nice long date with your stereo or a dirty book. Sunday if you're ambitious you can head for one of the churches and then spend your afternoon waiting for everybody to get back so you can here about their exciting weekends. Don't get too excited tomorrow is Monday, and nothing is worst then Mondays.

So they told us at orientation this was not an ALL girl's school, so let's hear from the guys. O.K. guys, what would you do if you had 100 pages of psychology to read and you just don't feel like doing it????

Experience . . . UNCG

The Black Experience this shouldn't be too difficult because I am black, I live, and everyday that I live, I experience something, even if it's nothing UNCG has meant a lot to me and I don't mind telling anyone. Of course, being on a predominantly white campus has never frightened me or given me an inferiority complex, but sometimes I have wondered why I came to this university, simply because it is predominantly white. As a matter of fact, I have wondered that same thing for three years. The important thing is, however, I could always come up with an answer, one that seemed to "comfort" me and justify my reasoning for being here and continuing my education here. Those reasons are really what my experience on UNCG campus spells out.

For one thing, I came to this university for an education. I am receiving that education, though at times, I feel I'm learning more outside of the classroom than in it!!!

I am one of those people who likes to get involved in things, with people. As a member of the Neo-Black Society, and I thank God for its existence on this campus, it has been an education by itself. This education is something words can attempt to express but more so, it is something deeply felt. Very few white students, if any, attended the NBS meetings or Rap sessions held by NBS (not all the black students did either); yet they existed, and they served their purpose.

I had never heard of a Black Arts Festival until I reached UNCG and became a member of NBS. Yet, each year I've been here, each festival is better than the one held the year before. This is the most important event of the year for NBS and believe me, books are forgotten that one week! Out of those Senate meeting that I attended concerning NBS' budget for a given year, I observed that most of the people that argued over giving money to the society never really attended those functions held to experience what actually went on. I often wondered why they could spend hours fussing over the money and never seemed to spend one or two hours at the event the money was spent on.

As a Residence Hall Coordinator this past year, I found that you have to give of yourself, and your time. Of course, this applies to any organization or any one thing you want to be successful. As a person, I found this experience very rewarding because I was with people. I enjoyed people, and seeing and trying to make them happier or at least make one day a little brighter, one year at this university — one to remember. This is one experience as a whole that has made my black experience at UNCG worthwhile and memorable. To encourage someone who had not known what student apathy really meant before they came here, and to keep them from falling into that bag was a large part of me as a student on UNCG's campus, having a functional position over other UNC-G students in a dorm situation.

As for my last words, I say to anyone, PLEASE get involved, learn to give of yourself . . . That's my experience, you can call it a black one, because I am black, but "I, too, sing America."

One last comment, as a black student, I was noticed by professors, and students. I suppose though that anytime you're in the minority, you're bound to be acknowledged or ignored. Usually, I am acknowledged.

THE CAMPUS FIGHTERS

It is the year 1968, and the anti-war movement is in full swing. The campus is a hotbed of activity, with students organizing protests, rallies, and sit-ins. The atmosphere is charged with a sense of urgency and idealism. In the foreground, a young woman with long dark hair is seen in profile, looking intently at a book or document. She is wearing a patterned top. In the background, another person is visible, partially obscured by a wooden structure, possibly a table or a barrier. The scene is set indoors, with a window showing a glimpse of the outdoors. The overall mood is one of focused activity and intellectual pursuit.

Let me get this straight, you are trying to tell me that one of the giants of physics, Sir Issac Newton, learned his physics out of a classroom under an apple tree. Come on now, you know one cannot learn anything outside of a classroom. Why do you think "they" keep sending me to Dean Goldman's office for cutting class if it's not important. Did Newton get sent to the office for cutting class? And I have heard that the yearbook editor never goes to class. I suppose the next thing you will tell me is that if a science major would let himself out of his cage, I mean lab, for a while and indulged in something decadent like drama, or maybe music, he is going to learn something new about the world around him, the world within him. I thought learning had to be bad to taste good, I mean do some good. You are actually advocating learning through pleasurable experiences in totally unrelated fields. I don't believe it. The next thing you will try to tell me is that these things are relevant and the versa visa is true, too.

Campus Security

See the man
He is a crossing guard
He is here to protect all the children here at school
He will let you cross the street when the light is red
He will not let you cross when the light is green
He is here to save all the school children from breaking their legs
... or breaking their arms
... or breaking their heads
... or any other nasty thing that can happen to you when you cross the street
So do not be mean to him, he is here to protect you when you cross the street
Why am I telling you this?
It's been a long time since elementary school and you might have forgotten.

MONDAY LOVE FEAST

The Love Feast began several years ago when several students from King, North Carolina spoke with the Dean of Students about providing a Christmas service for the students of W.C. They were able to persuade the Rev. and Thomas Presley to lead the service.

This year the Lovefeast, still being lead by Reverend Presley, was held for three nights in Com. Ballroom. The traditional coffee and honey buns were served by members of campus service organizations, S.C. and U. members, and volunteers of Interfaith.

Several students said they felt a peace and oneness with everyone around them. Others said it brought tears to their eyes for everyone who attended the Love Feast, it was a unique experience, and it was also a challenge to carry candle home in hopes that the flame would not go out.

In 1975 there was an impeachment, in 1976 S.C.A. president Sean O'Kane created a new file, and that file was for resignations. There were over 10 resignations this year by Class A officers. Sean stated that some had good reasons, others, simply, gave up because they could not cope with the pressures.

In August, before classes began, Sylvia Leplin resign as Corradidi Editor. Tim Rowels and Debbie Troutman were appointed, with Tim resigning in January. Sylvia resigned because she felt the student body did not want a literary magazine, Tim and Debbie deserve credit for proving her wrong.

In October, Chuck Houska resigned as Carolinian Editor. In his letter to Sean, Chuck apologized to the student body for taking on a responsibility he could not handle, Pam Blackburn took on the position and she later resigned in March. Peter Rutledge took over for the remainder of the year.

Dave Cole quit as EUC president. Dave and council found it almost impossible to work together. Marg Breslin took over in November.

Paul Markel resigned as chairperson of residential courts. Paul found it very difficult to try and enforce rules in which he personally did not believe in.

From the Executive Cabinet, Betty Godfrey, Sec. for Residential Affairs, and Ravonda Dalton Webster, Sec. for Minority Affairs, both resign. Bot stated that since they were student teaching second semester they would not be able to fulfill their responsibilities. Sean praised both for jobs well done. Each held their positions for over a year.

Besides the fact alot of people gave up, even more didn't even bother to try. In both Town Student's Senators elections this year, everyone on the ballot was elected. Sean O'Kane said that alot of students came to him with good ideas, but they depended on a few students to implement those ideas. There just are not enough students involved in Student Government. It has it's problems, true, but at least these people tried to get involved.

STUDENT ORIENTATION COMMITTEE

What is a school newspaper supposed to do? Is it a sounding board for those fully-crazed maniacs in the student Senate, or is it a "voice" for the common students? After all, who is the common student?

The Carolinian at UNC-G is traditionally a social announcement sheet. In the early days of Women's College it was filled with news of sororities and other social organizations. Today, The Carolinian is in the same confused state as the rest of the university. It is not big enough, that is, there are not enough people or enough money to go into the big time as the counterpart at UNC-Chapel Hill has become. It is too large to sink into the inanities of printing mere social announcements. Besides these pressures of size and money, the college newspaper is expected to be the vanguard of change and the guardian of the students' rights to be informed and to persuade.

There is more to the problem of The Carolinian than the philosophical dilemma. This year the paper has had two elected editors, one appointed editor, and several acting editors. While the strength of the paper is not dependent upon the editor, the changeover from one policy to the opposite policy has left scars of confusion and some ill will. The staff has been on a merry-go-round of positional changes and structural controversies. The seemingly small problem of what role each editorial staff member is to play led to many agonizing, soul-searching sessions of "ironing out."

CAROLINIAN

The school, UNC-G is large and growing larger every year, but the percentage of students, who are willing to spend their time working for little more than self-satisfaction in seeing the paper as it is published, is growing smaller every year. UNC-G needs to have a department of journalism to handle the overflow of Chapel Hill and to give the students of the state a chance to major in journalism without going to J-School. The added benefit would be that UNC-G's struggling newspaper would have a pool of interested personnel.

The Carolinian does need to be separated from the student government but this separation does not mean that the paper will become independent. It will merely be out of the government, that is, it will finally occupy the position it should. The press, even the student press, can not be inside the government and have an objective view of it. After all, isn't the press supposed to be the first to point out what is wrong or what is right in the government without fear that the financial rug will be pulled out from under it? The university has allowed a student newspaper to come into existence, but the university leaders, including the faculty, administration, and the student government, have abandoned their responsibility to see that the newspaper has a chance to operate without fear. The fault lies not only with the students, but with the faculty and administration who practice an entirely "hands-off" policy.

Truly, the administration does not need to censor the paper, but it should, at the very least, give the newspaper some respect. The students have as much right to know what is going on in the university as those outsiders who get reports from the news bureau. Also, the administration and faculty are the only ones who can get UNC-G a journalism department, with a group of journalism majors who can give the campus the coverage it needs. The Carolinian will grow to fit the size of the university itself.

The staff and editors of the Carolinian have made some colossal mistakes. There have been times when the staff and editors themselves wondered just what in the hell they were trying to do. However, the staff and editors have attempted, and they tried not only for their own sakes, but for the sake of the students and for the universities. The institution of the Carolinian can't fade away from lack of support; it is just too important and too old to let that happen. If everyone in the university will give the Carolinian room and the chance to grow, this college paper will become all it can and should be. It will fit the university.

“He Can Flat Draw a Woman!!”

MAZOTTA

Jim Mazotta has been a cartoonist for the three printed media for four years. Here are a few student comments as to how they feel about his work.

“He is a sexist, quiet, reserved, witty, ultra sarcastic, one of the best cartoonist I’ve ever seen.”

“If it wasn’t for Mazotta, no one would read the editorial page of the Cary.”

“The boy has originality”

“Repulsive . . . well sometimes funny.”

“He does help to fill up space in a yearbook when you don’t have enough copy.”

“Charles Kuralt thinks he is one of the best cartoonist to come along in a long time.”

SPORTS AT UNC-G???

Let's take a look at UNC-G sports over the past year. How many times have you heard "Sports are there any at this school?" or "we didn't do too well this year, I don't think, because I really didn't attend any games," or maybe you heard someone say "I just don't want to go, because no one ever goes and I would rather go to State or Carolina for the day."

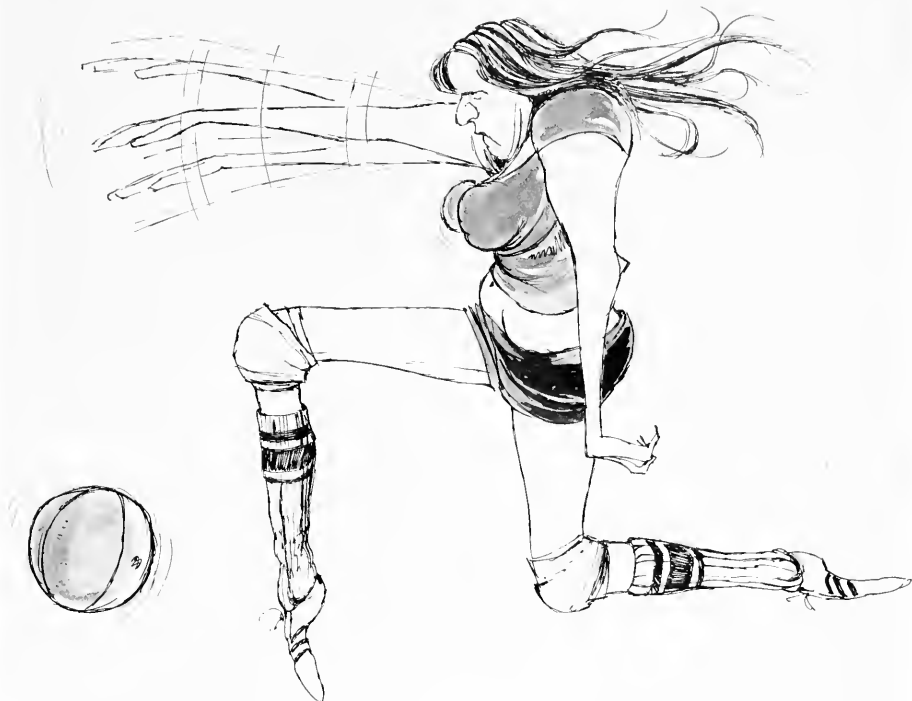

Well, UNC-G when are we going to wake up? We've got alot to be proud of, but we don't realize it, because we're all so apathetic. If we cared half as much about sports at this school as we care about sports at other schools or throwing our frisbees, we might have alot more to be proud of. Young athletes, both men and women, give of their time, energy, and talents, day in and day out, to have maybe ten people show up for the games. Their rewards come from the fun, and enjoyment, and self-fulfillment that they get out of the sport. But, don't they deserve recognition too? Since UNC-G is one of the only Universities in this state that doesn't give any athletic scholarships of any kind, they need our support even more.

This year was slow for most of our teams. There were highlights, but there were also alot of frustrations and disappointments. The talent was there, the desire was there, but so were the problems and a lack of interest and support.

The Field Hockey has a pretty good season finishing 10-1-7. The team will be losing many seniors and its coach for next year. This year, even with the frustration of tying 7 games, our team sent 5 players to Southeast and 2 on to Nationals, Jill Masterman and Nancy Woodside.

Soccer has several close games, but overall a losing season. One of the soccer players attributed it to inexperience, so next year should be better.

Women's Basketball won the Elon invitational tournament, but also had a losing season. They never could get it all together. Their inconsistency proved to be disappointing for the entire team.

Our men's basketball team had more support than any of the other sports. We had a new coach, a lot of talent, a strong desire to win, but we also had a major obstacle to fight. Many of the starting players were benched because of an NCAA ruling which stated they must sit out as many games as they played in a summer league. Many of the players were penalized for almost half of the season, but the second half they came back with some good basketball before a packed Curry gym.

Womens golf also had its problems this season: a new coach, five fall golfers, and only three spring golfers — not even enough to have a team. Mens golf did better as far as having players, and a team. It was the first year to have a mens team, and they did do quite well.

Swimming under went an exciting change — they went co-ed! No longer will there be mens and womens teams, but rather this joint venture of the sexes. In years to come, it should show to be even more thrilling than now.

The men's and women's tennis teams had hard struggling seasons. They perhaps played against the biggest disadvantage of any team — the athletic scholarship. On the courts the financial edge really showed up, but because of determination and dedication, UNC-G hung right in there.

Softball was a first for the Spartans this year, and the team did exceptionally well. They were very tough competitors and they fought like champs.

There is no doubt about the sports program at UNC-G, it isn't stressed as much as academics — that's "the top priority." But its up to us, the students, to encourage and support our teams. We must remember 50% is up to the team and 50% is up to us to show a little interest. We may be little, but we're tough. Yes, UNC-G has an athletic program!!!!!!

Distractions kept us . . . out of classes . . . away from home . . . out of money . . . in the sun . . . out of bed . . . away from friends . . . but they were fun.
